The CIA MAP

A top-quality visual guide to world events . . .

Staff Report

WAR, CLANDESTINE actions, Communist encroachments, and U.S. military business in faraway nations become instantly visible on intelligence maps produced for the Central Intelligence Agency.

How large is Iran? Where is its oil? Its agriculture? Its cities? Its deserts? What is its geographical relationship to Kuwait? The Soviet Union?

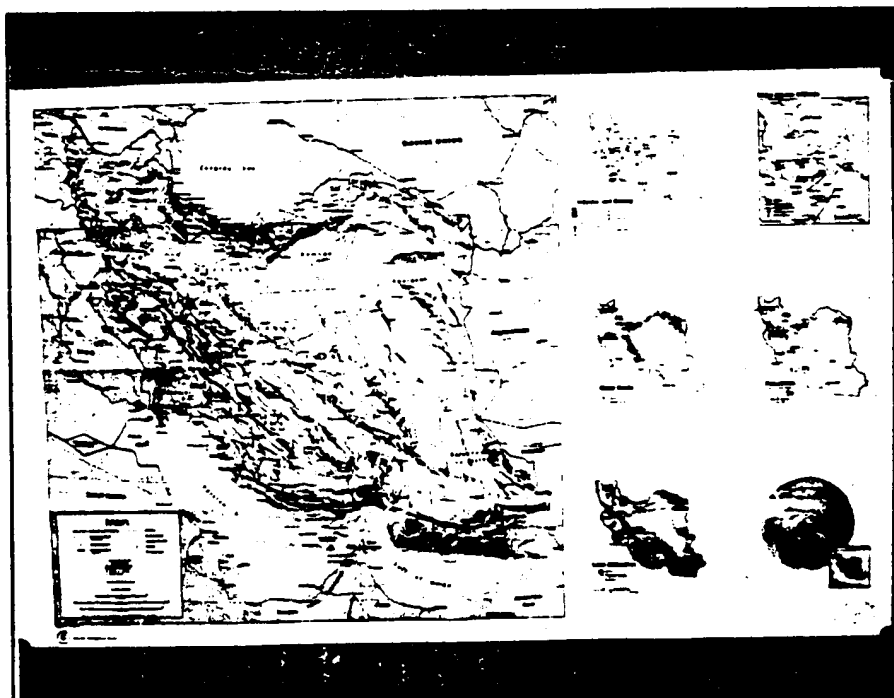

Those who don't know the answers can find them through library research. Those who don't have time to research can use CIA maps as a more efficient study aid to sort out the patchwork of names and places dropped daily in the news.

Available is a series of top-quality maps, cartographic visual guides to world events, that supply intelligence background for translation into anticipated geopolitical tactics.

The CIA maps are lithographed in color, and provide "country-at-a-glance" information. The excellence of these maps is reflected in sophisticated reproduction technique, and in depiction of geographic features, industries, crops, land utilizations, population density, and comparison of the specific nation's area to areas of the U.S. Also featured are locations of rail lines, surfaced and non-surfaced roads, airports, and principal seaports. Whatever is appropriate to the intelligence of each country is displayed in a straightforward manner, using precise full-color graphics.

A CIA map for nearly every country in the world is available from Best Press Services, World Headquarters, P.O. Box 27073-CiaMaps, Dept. SG, Phoenix, AZ 85061.
